Our First Cold Season is a Wrap!

We break up the year at Boomerang Comedy Theater into “cold” and “warm” seasons, and...WOW! It’s been a fantastic first cold season!

The reason for the seasons is to allow for a short break a couple of times a year to gather input from the Boomerang community, analyze operations with an eye toward continuous growth and improvement, and freshen the physical plant to keep everything in good working order at the theater.

In the future, the break between seasons will feature small-team “competitive” improv shows. It will be a great opportunity for performers in the Boomerang Comedy Theater Family who might not know each other to connect and play together in hopes of earning enough audience votes to move on to the next week’s bracket.

That’s later down the line, and in the meantime, we’ll be taking some time to implement changes designed to elevate the experience of the audience and the performers at the theater. We have purchased new lights, a new light board for the tech booth, and new accoustical tiles. The next few weeks will be devoted to installing those upgrades.

We are also taking this time to beef up our educational offerings. In mid-July we’ll have a new round of introductory and intermediate improv classes and a standup class. Our curriculum is specifically designed to prepare players, should they choose, to become regular performers on our stage.

Since opening the doors and holding our first show in February, we’ve had sold out performances, welcomed a bunch of funny talented people to our stage, and hosted a full class of enthusiastic improvisers that hopefully you’ll be seeing perform on house teams soon.

A big THANK YOU to everyone who bought a ticket, performed in a show, signed up for a class, and generally supported this new endeavor!

Owner’s Corner: Looking Ahead

First of all, as we prepare for the upcoming “warm” season at Boomerang Comedy Theater, I am actively seeking your constructive feedback and suggestions.

This is a community we’re building, not a fiefdom (although I have always wondered what it would like to be an actual fief), so if you have something to say, your input would be much appreciated.

To facilitate sharing your thoughts, we’ve created this anonymous Google form, or you can email me directly at Travis@BoomerangComedy.com.

We’ll be ramping up our marketing efforts. To help us spread the word, if you aren’t following us on the Book, the Gram, the Tok, and the Tube, please do, and share share share the show and class information.

One big change moving forward is the structure of our education program.

We have a curriculum of four core improv classes and two standup classes that will prepare students to audition for regularly-performing house teams.

Other opportunities we’re excited to offer include, but are not limited to, a short-form “competition style” monthly show called King of the Mountain, special “MomProv,” “FemProv,” “ManProv,” and “VetProv” shows throughout the year, and long form regularly performing teams for graduates of our core curriculum.

We’ve also got plans for shorter workshops to augment our regular curriculum and allow you to further hone your comedy craft.

As we prepare for the warm season, we’ll be holding jams at the theater. These are free and open to anyone. Put your name in a bowl, and when your name is drawn, you hit the stage to play a scene. Fun, right?!

These are just some of the things ahead for Boomerang Comedy Theater. We’ll update the schedule as things get added at BoomerangComedy.com.

We look forward to what’s ahead and hope you’ll be there to share great times with us at Boomerang Comedy Theater!
